How often it is taught that youth know not the meaning of life ...

But what of us, what of you who have thrilled at the conquest of a concept or a theory?

What of us
who have known disillusionment
and maturity
through failure;
who sensed and studied death for answers not found or not known?

What of us, what of you,
who go on and will go on to unlock or dedicate your lives,
attempting to unlock
and to loosen
the miseries of men?

What of us with such exaltation
and sweet confusion at life we grasp and hunger for the knowledge and truth of existence?

What of us?
How can you say, now,
we know not the meaning of what it is
to be alive ...

These Moments of Life are Now Ours, Forever

Each day we fill with Individual moments of living. . .
And yet, somehow
A moment is captured
And crystallized, to be kept alive
For us
In all the years to come.
A bit of sunshine here,
A lonely moment there,
The hope of a new beginning,
The sobering of an end,
Will all be ours
To relive, to know again.
For in these moments
Which will not be lost
In the foggy haze
Of memories,
We have captured,
If only for a moment of eternity,
The essence of what it is
To be alive. . .

Your Smiles And Faces Make Life A Living Experience

Sunsets and daffodils ...
The omnipotent beauty
Of nature is
All around us.

Yet, when you smiled
At me, and made me
Laugh, or wonder,
Or cry,

The evidence of living
No longer surrounded me,
But, was now known
Within me.

Your face and its Unpredictable scheme of
Flashes of pain and joy
Showed me that

From within, you move
As you do because you are Alive, and that
You are here,

Not to merely
Take up space, but to
Squeeze dry the trickling
Ecstasy of life.

S. M.

So sweetly the Muses played
Their music and sang their Poems that they brought to Mankind a spiritual tranquillity
To calm the fire of war and
Soothe the spirit of hate.

Down and down the lilting
Melody spirals, filling
The innermost parts of the soul
With a spiritual glory
Close to the heavens.

The impression of your art
Upon the soul
Flows gently and liquifies the Corporeal being into a
Moving, feeling,
Sensitive instrument.

Like warm molasses, the
Comprehension of living fills
Every pore, every thought, with
The beauty and understanding of What it is
To be alive.

Someday We May Part But No Love Is Forgotten

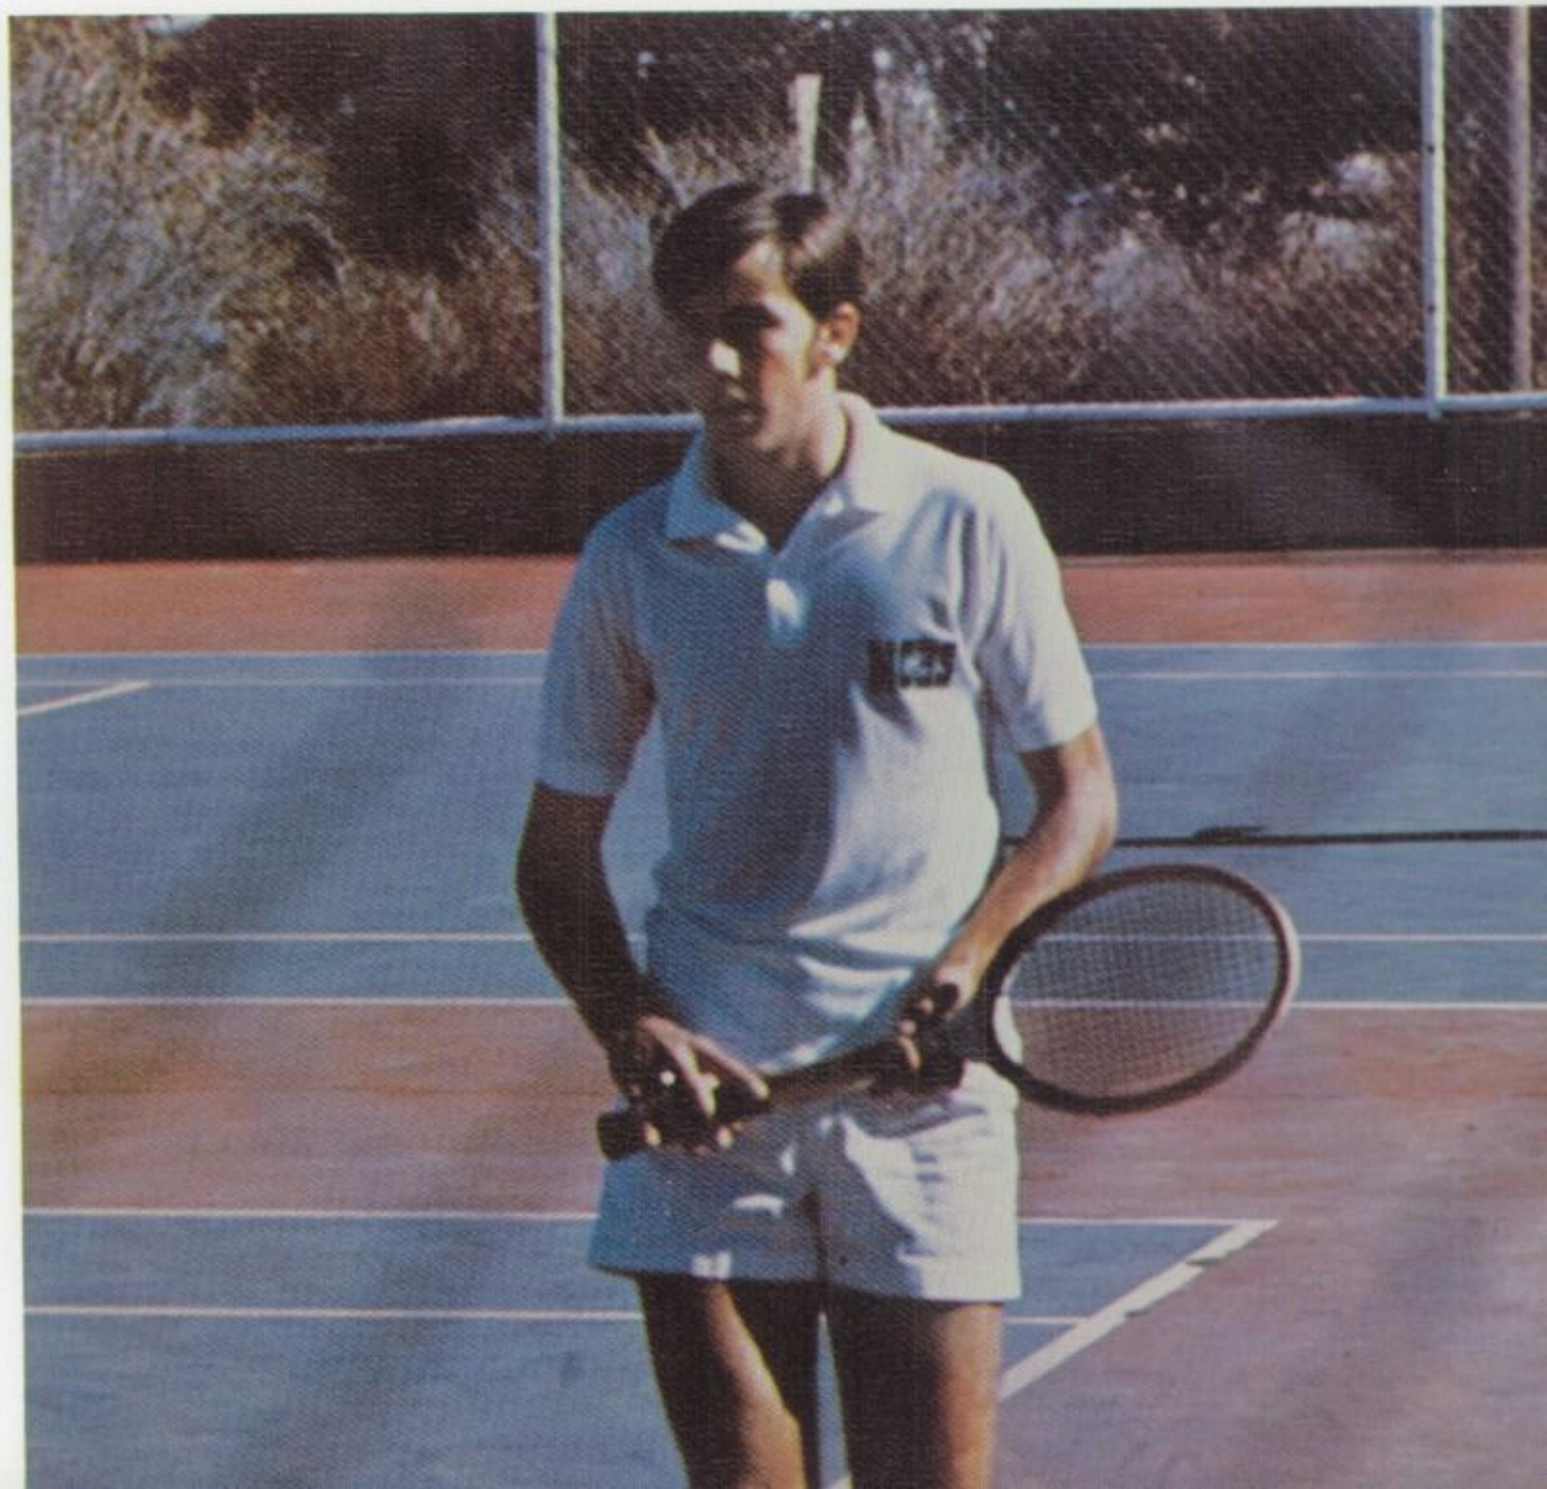

And they called us children ...
But you and I are not children,
For in our hands we held
The fragile responsibility of Love ...
We will part someday, perhaps
Forever, but do not forget
These days together
When we eagerly sought after
Each tempting delightful moment,
Each precious living liquid
Second, when the world
Spun round in happy colors,
When all our loves,
As varied as they may be,
Brought a common union
To our hearts in what it is
To be alive ...

In a Soul Life Can Soar

Let the winds touch our souls. . .
 and set them free,
 where they may reach
 up to the sun
 to feel its warmth.

Let us hang in suspension between,
 earth and heaven,
liberated from the demands of humanity
 with only the mysteries of life to contend.

Like Icarus though, too soon the wax that binds us will soften,
 and too soon we plunge to the cold
 reality of life.

But somewhere in the clouds. . .
 our dreams still dare
 to soar;
 still taunt the sun,
 still rise above it all.

There is no turning them back,
 for they have gained awareness of what it is
 to be alive.

Look Within Yourself There Will Be An Answer

An abstract and solitary moment
When only shadows
Of people and days fill your mind;
Be alone with yourself, and know
Who you are.

Reach down, see what is there;
What makes you tick,
What makes you laugh,
What makes you cry.
Feel your soul;
Touch it, examine it,
Know it ...

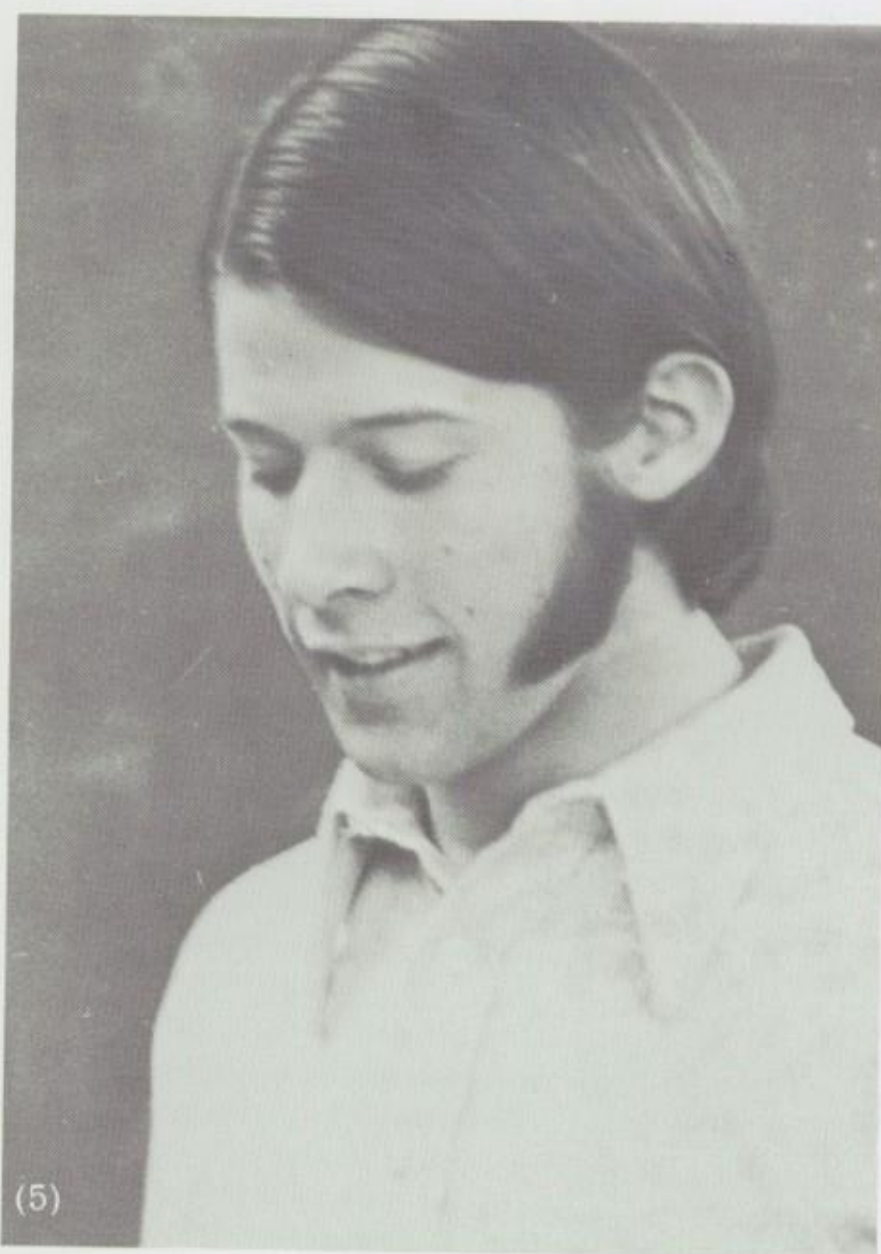

When all is done and the mood
Has passed,
As dust in a cloud,
Then smile, and know, what it is
To be alive.

Now Our Lives Must Part And We Will Move On

And so we grow older ...
Each day will somehow be lost
To eternity. Others will come and Laugh where once we perhaps
Wept, for a broken love
Or a young life lost.
Though we move on we will never
Turn away from these moments of Life as they are now; from these Days, when we learned to know the Subtle sweetness and the haunting
Melancholy of our youth.
Changes will come and some of us
Will go on to love, to hate, to live
Or to fight, but still we move Forward. We continue, for now we Know the yearning and passion of
Golden days touched with the pangs
Of sadness at the beauty of existence.
We will go on for we know what
It is to be alive ...

S.K. Walsh, Supt. For Personnel Services, Retires

After 44 years of serving the educational system of Casper, S. Kelly Walsh retires this year. In 1927, Mr. Walsh began his career in Casper as an instrumental music teacher. In 1936, he became principal of NCHS, serving in this capacity until 1958, when he was promoted to the position of Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Services.

Always willing to lend a helping hand to students and teachers, Mr. Walsh has made hundreds of grateful friends. He has stated that the most memorable thing that has happened to him was to have Casper's second high school named for him.

His friendliness and encouragement will be missed, but he retires with the best wishes of all who have known him.

The MUSTANG staff is pleased to dedicate this 1971 edition of the NCHS yearbook to a man who has dedicated his life to the youth of Casper ... Mr. S. Kelly Walsh.

W. A. Savage, Assistant Supt. for Business Affairs

Business Administrator Retires

Mr. Walter A. Savage, Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs, retires after 27 years of service to the Casper schools. He has handled the finances for the school district since 1944. Before that, he was a business education instructor at NCHS. His services to the schools and the community have been greatly appreciated by all, and the MUSTANG staff extends best wishes for a happy retirement.

Administration And Students Agree On Changes

Working with student leaders, an understanding and aware administration helped to eliminate several of the codes of the past. A change in the uniform code, and permission for married students to participate in all school activities were among the innovations in 1971. Particularly noteworthy was the initiation of Senior Seminars during the last two weeks of school. With the encouragement of the administration, students were motivated to plan seminars as an experiment in new educational methods.

Guidance Aids Students In Career Selection

One of the busiest places in school is the guidance office. Counselors urge the elevation of individuals through proper class placement, and guidance in career selections. In addition to individual counseling of students, guidance personnel are busy administering achievement tests and aiding in scholarship applications.

Guidance personnel include (top row) Ben Amend, Special Education; John Bidwell, counselor. (bottom row) Pat Freiberg, counselor, Mary Ann Drew, girls' counselor.

NCHS Library One Of State's Finest

Long recognized as one of the outstanding libraries in the state, the NCHS library is ably managed by Mrs. Lawana Carley, head librarian, and Mrs. Josephine Axlund, assistant. New books added each year build the resource materials available to students. The listening center has proved popular, as students may watch film strips and listen to tape recordings.

Progressive Programs Initiated In English

Much of the unrest among today's youth is the result of dissatisfaction with the irrelevant subject matter taught at various educational institutions. However, with perseverance and devotion, the NCHS English department has undertaken a project to renovate long-established courses by substituting an elective program that allows the student to choose his own subjects. Each course is organized on a semester basis, which provides greater variety. Juniors and seniors are afforded this opportunity of self-guidance, but sophomores will take "Introduction to Literature," a basic course in expository writing and genres. Enthusiasm from students was overwhelming.

Fine Arts Encourage Cultural Appreciation

Students learn appreciation of beauty in sight and sound in the Fine Arts Department. Student originality in painting, ceramics and sculptures is not stifled by the teacher, but encouraged through understanding and guidance. Music students participate in vocal and instrumental programs and provide entertainment at school and civic affairs.

Mathematics Enriched By Modern Concepts

Combining the skills of ancient mathematicians with modern theory is the objective of the NCHS Math Department. Modern philosophies in math stress the understanding of how problems are deduced rather than just arriving at the correct answer. NCHS placed first in the state math contest.

ROTC Becomes Elective Course

This is the first year in which ROTC is not mandatory for sophomore boys. As military discipline is an important facet in training ROTC cadets, the Color Guard raises and lowers the flag each day, and members of the Mustang Guard are on duty at many school functions. The ROTC cadets conduct military maneuvers, with the Federal Inspection climaxing their activities for the year.

Homecoming: A Return To Memories

Homecoming 1970, with an emphasis on activity, was an exciting and nostalgic occasion for alumni. From the coronation of Queen Pam Williams and her court, the parade of floats, the immense bonfire, the NFL barbeque to the snake dance, alumni were reminded of their own memorable high school days. Though the Mustangs lost the football game to Cheyenne East, 7-10, enthusiasm and interest ran high throughout the festivities.

Football Ball—A Ball!

This year's Football Ball, sponsored by the Girl's League Council, was held in the Mardi Gras Room at the Ramada Inn, November 7, 1970, with music by the "Cherrylace." The theme was "Candyland," with appropriate decorations of gingerbread houses, candy treats, and lollipops. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the coveted football to Doug Hirschman.

'Around The World' Festive Fantasy

With tingling excitement and heart-warming tenderness, about 250 young people danced 'til midnight, April 24th at the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Elegance enveloped the scene which saw Sandy Stroock crowned Prom Queen, Babs Tooke, First Attendant, Debbie Nation, Second Attendant, Debbie High, Third Attendant, and Julie Longenecker, Fourth Attendant. "Around the World" was the theme displayed in the Mardi Gras Room of the Ramada Inn, and "Sky Gate" from Laramie was the band. Juniors did their best in making the last dance attended by seniors an ecstatic one.

'My Fair Lady' Masterpiece Of Musicals

That load of melody and laughter, "My Fair Lady," delighted audiences on May 6, 7, and 8, when the NCHS Players and Orchestra presented Lerner and Loewe's rollicking musical comedy. Directed by John F. Welsh, the story concerns an arrogant phonetics professor who bets he can make a lady of a Cockney flower girl by teaching her to speak properly.

When Eliza finally masters the phrase, "the rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain," with all its treacherous vowels intact, it is the occasion for a lively tango with her instructor and his friend. Bob Rose, left, as Colonel Pickering, and Terry Gray, right, as Professor Higgins salute Eliza (Charlotte Browning.)

(above) At the Ascot Races, Eliza forgets she is a lady, to the horror of the fashionable spectators. (below) Scott Hunt, choreographer for the production, delights the Cockney flower girls with his fancy stepping.

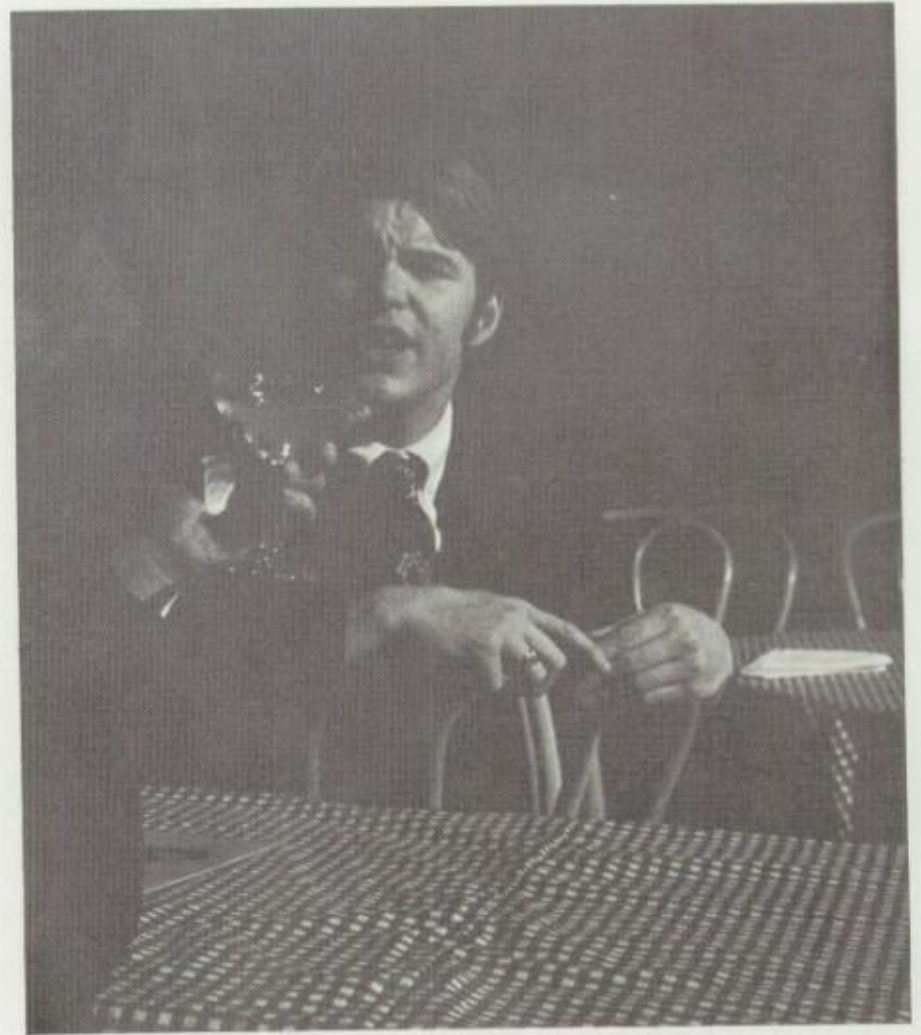

Charlotte Browning appeared as Eliza Doolittle, the guttersnipe who is turned into a lady by Professor Higgins, played by Terry Gray. Bob Rose, as Colonel Pickering, and Pat Keefe as Alfred Doolittle, Eliza's rascally father, added to the comedy. Others appearing in the cast were Debbie Waldron as Mrs. Higgins, T.J. Schoenwald as Freddy, Janie Johnson as Mrs. Pearce, and a cast of 100 singers and dancers. Accompanying them in the joyous songs and dances were the 40 members of the NCHS Orchestra, directed by Robert Bovie.

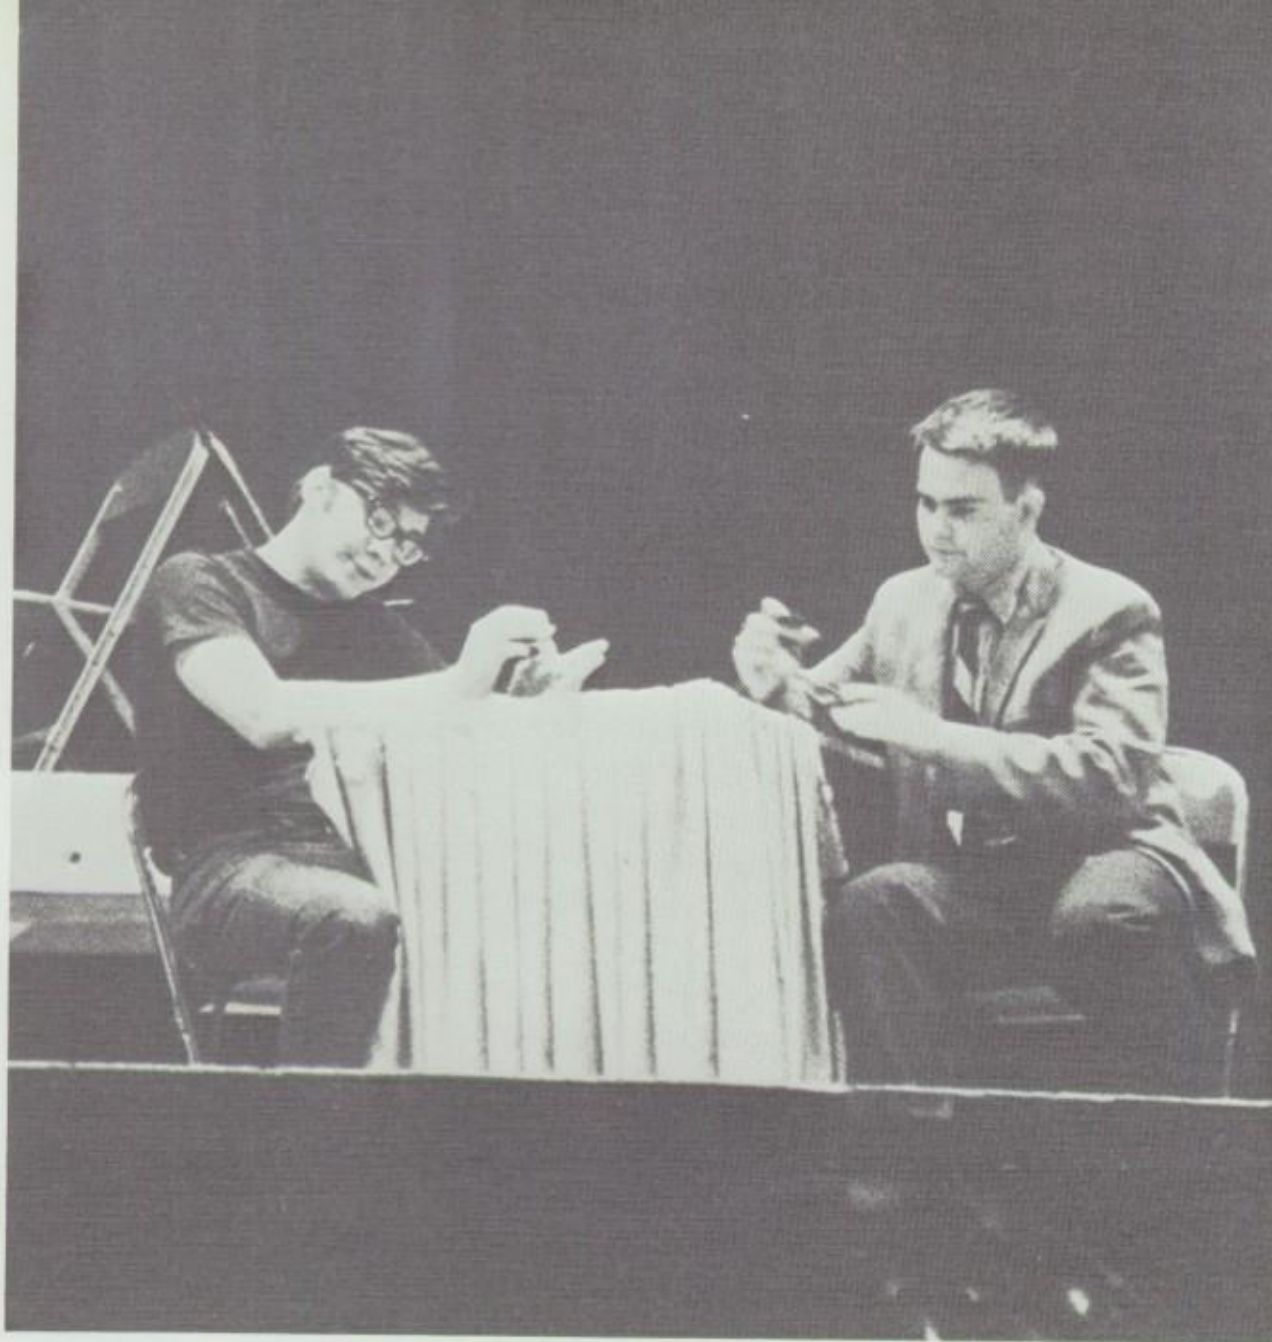

'Death Of A Salesman' Another Smash Hit

Director John Welsh and the NCHS Players produced another hit in Arthur Miller's, "Death of a Salesman," on February 18, 19, 20. Playing to capacity crowds for three nights, the cast drew standing ovations for their excellent performances.

Band Helps Tune Up School Spirit At NCHS

Another faction of the renowned musicianship of NCHS was found in the band program. Directed by Caryl Alexander, the band executed many pieces of music ranging from ominous overtures, like the one from "2001: A Space Odyssey," to the pomp and rhythm of John Philip Sousa's marches. Fall activities of the band included marching during half-times at football games, making interesting formations, and performing routines with the twirlers. They also attended home basketball games and accompanied the Pepsters while they danced. Their final performance was a spring concert, with vocal ensembles which provided a tremendous finale for the school year of 1971.

(Top) Intricate marching maneuvers, like forming a treble clef, is another facet of band life. (bottom left) Becky Mathisen, as drum majorette, is a sparkling addition to the band as she directs traffic. (bottom right) Trudging the long distance of the homecoming parade, the band added to the festivities.

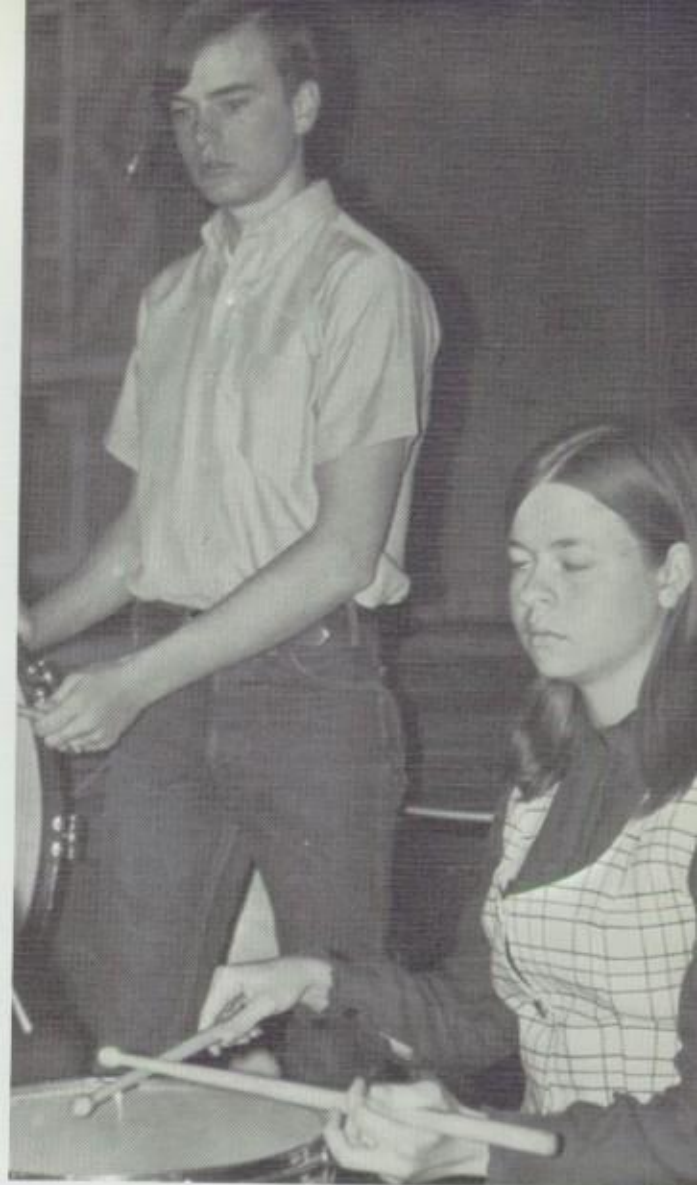

(Top) After auditioning by sending recordings of their instrumental music as hundreds of other Wyoming high school musicians did, Ava Edmondson, Tom Niethammer and Laurie Winslow were chosen as members of all-state band. Not shown are Kim Kaye, Colleen Clardy, Karen Rachou, Jerry Boyles and Ed Davis. (bottom left) Resting during a break, Colleen Clardy reviews her music before her next performance. (bottom right) Enthusiasm from twirlers Karen Studdard and Rhonda Schlager added to the success of the band.

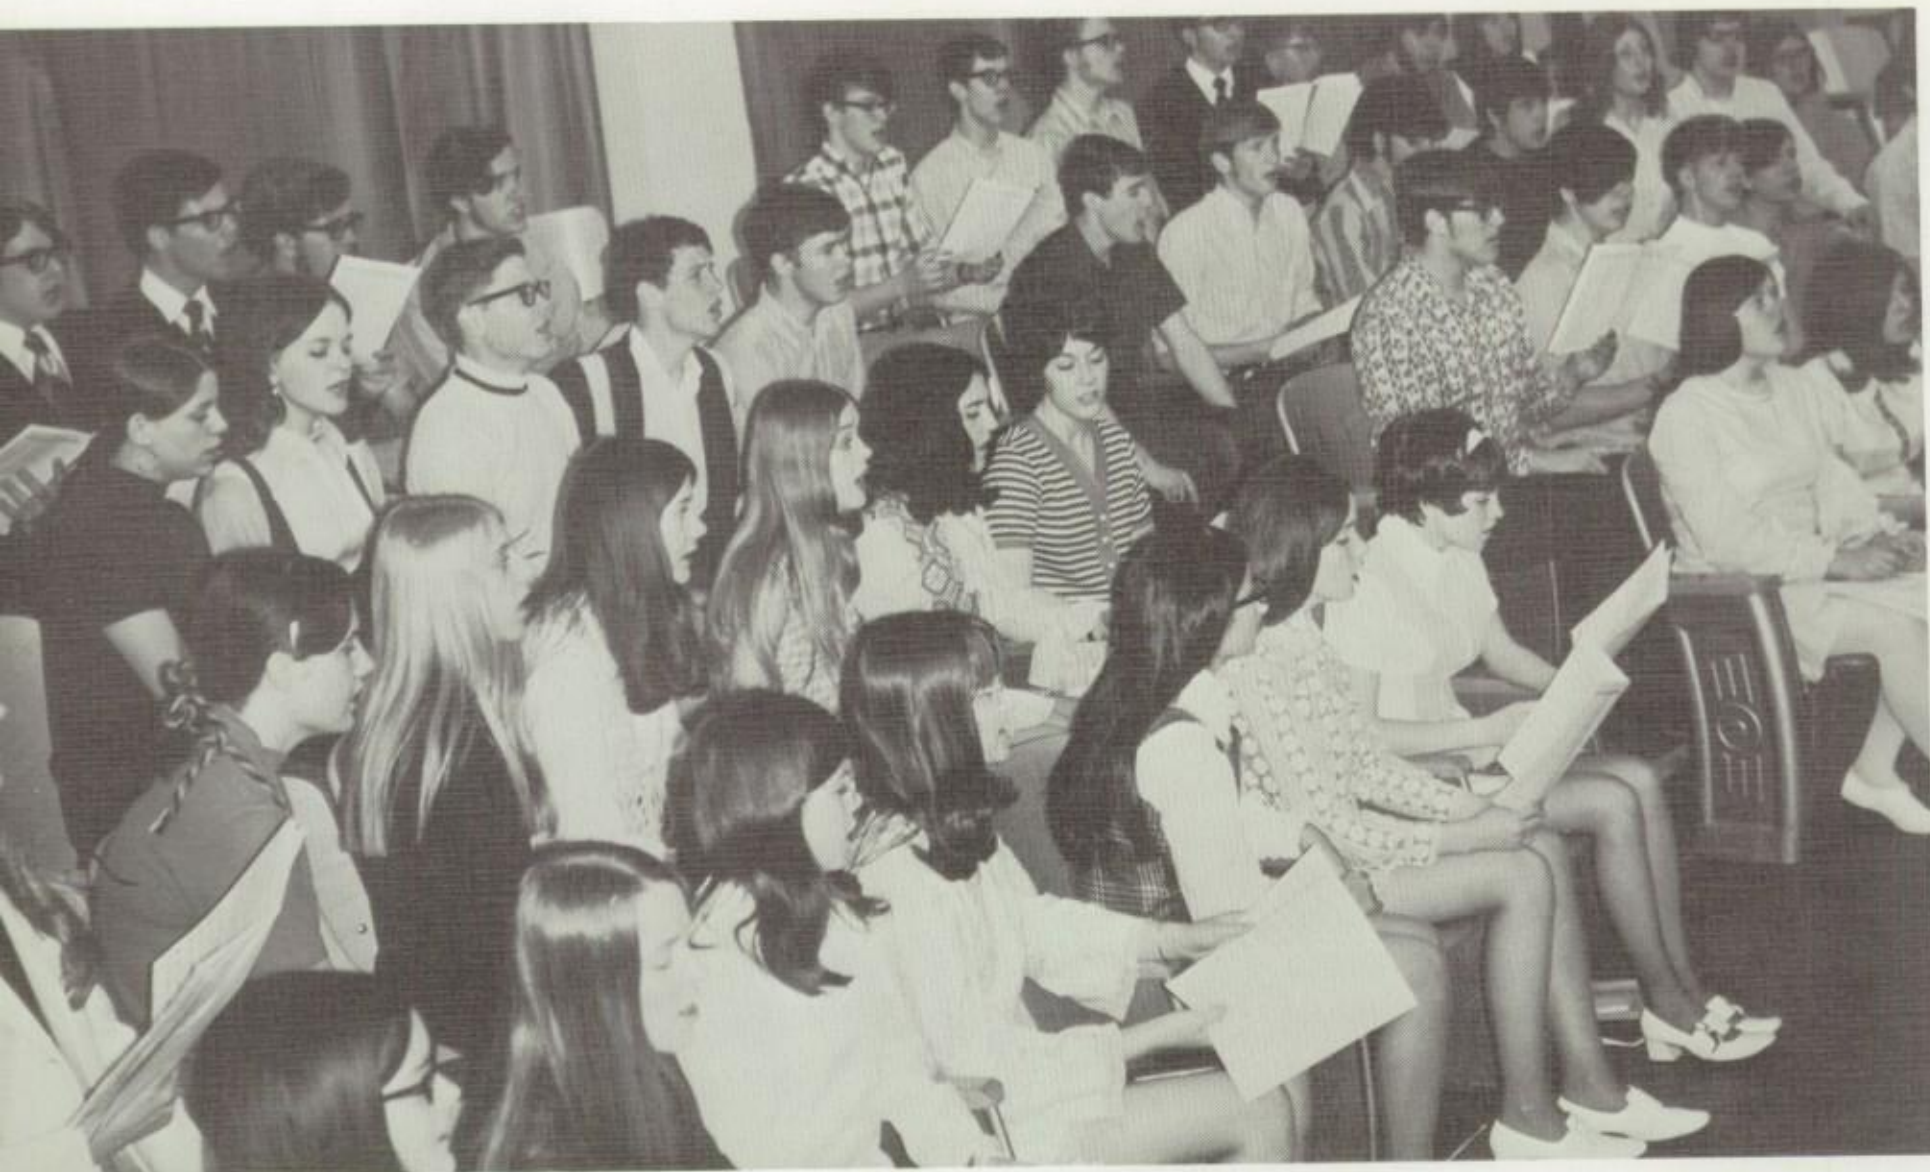

Orchestra Contributes To Success Of Musical

Robert Bovie, the director and arranger for the NCHS orchestra, is a new addition to the music department. His initiation was the Christmas concert where the choir and orchestra combined forces to present an outstanding performance. Performing a repertoire of classical and popular music in the spring concert, the orchestra exhibited mature and masterful executions of the difficult selections. However, the major contribution from the orchestra was the time-consuming job of accompanying "My Fair Lady." In addition to the many after-school rehearsals with the performers of the musical, members of the orchestra devoted much time to Saturday rehearsals as well as to individual practices.

(lower far right) Concert Chorale members still have time to smile though they put in long hours of practice, (top far right) Mr. McIntire leads the choir with unfaltering skill.

NC's Halls Alive With Sound Of Music

Directed by Mr. Wayne McIntire, the second and third period choirs and Girls' Glee class gave Christmas and Spring concerts for the students at NCHS, as well as the general public. Selected members also participated in the All-State Choir, All North-West Choir at Boise, Idaho, and in the Music Festival at Sheridan.

The musical ambassadors of NCHS, or the Concert Chorale, sang their way into the hearts of many Casperites by performing at various local club meetings, church groups, and at the University of Wyoming. Selected by audition, the thirty members of the Chorale devoted a great deal of time to practice and performance.

National Honor Society Represents Scholarship

Representing outstanding scholarship at NCHS, National Honor Society members provided a tutoring service for fellow classmates and sponsored the annual money making project of selling and delivering Valentines. Bruce Shannon and Karen Rachou were recipients of the two scholarships given from the money earned. Officers for the 1970-71 National Honor Society were: Kim Tweed, president; Jeff Lund, vice-president; Chris Wicker, treasurer; Sue Baskett, secretary. (Roster of Senior NHS members, P. 239)

Forensics Team Captures Second At State

Dedication to debate, extemp, oration and interpretation of literature motivated the NCHS Forensics Team to capture second place in state competition.

Coach William Thomson led the team to another successful year by helping to qualify Sheila McIlnay in Girls' Extemp for national competition. The traditional barbeque and a garage sale helped boost the funds of the National Forensics League for trips. Officers for the 70-71 NFL were: Stan Mullinnix, president; Sheila McIlnay, vice-president; Kim Tweed, secretary.

Inkslingers Have Their Night

Highlighting the year for National Quill and Scroll, the annual Inkslinger's Banquet was held in the Student Center. It was a gala event, where outstanding journalists were honored, and new members were initiated. Membership is comprised of the staffs of "The Gusher," "In Passing," and "The Mustang." Quill and Scroll strives for the betterment of school publications through applied practice.

(clockwise) Mrs. Houser, sponsor, with Julie Longenecker, secretary; Jerry Wellman, treasurer; Sandy Carlson, president; Mary Kay Kinsfather, vice-president. Julie Longenecker enjoys the selection of food at the banquet. Hobe Harden and John Lyttle are serious about eating.

Spotlight Focuses On Thespians

Excitement is always in the air when Thespians of International Troupe #1 gather for their Spotlight Banquet. The Drama Department, headed by Mr. Welsh and Mr. Brecheisen, bestows miniature "Oscars" to those outstanding actresses and actors voted upon by members. Best Actress Award went to Charlotte Browning; best actor award was won by Hobe Harden; best supporting awards, Bob Rose and Debbie Waldron. Officers: Scott Hunt, President; Pat Keefe, Vice-President, Ann Kolasinski, Secretary; Jane Winn, Corresponding Secretary; Dave Harrington, Treasurer.

(Clockwise) Hobe Harden has his moment after receiving the best actor award; Charlotte Browning is congratulated by Mr. Welsh on her achievement as best actress; enjoying the banquet are Mark Okes, Mike Deason, and Ed Putman.

Future Teachers Contribute To Public Service

NCHS Future Teachers of America participated in several activities, including selling pennants at the games, taking trips to A. J. Woods School, to the School for the Deaf, and to the University of Wyoming. They also participated in Project Teach, which was designed to help slow learners at the grade school levels. Officers were Cynthia Nunley, president; Jay Lugenbill, vice-president; and Laura Nickeson, secretary-treasurer.

DECA Builds Business Leaders

DECA is a business course combining classroom work with job experience. Throughout the year the club earned money to send members to state competition in Newcastle where they entered competition in job interview, officers of the year, sales demonstration, and advertising. To earn the needed amount, members contributed to school spirit by selling "Poly-fluffs" before games. They also worked at Sears and sold candies around town.

Understanding Is Key To IRC

International Relations Club activities this year ranged from attending the Northglenn Conference in Colorado to the membership party held in February. The club raised money by selling pens and candles; the funds were raised for use in building the Homecoming float, and paying entrance fees to various meets such as International Day and the Model U.N. in Greeley.

Future Farmers Of America Develop Skills In Agriculture

Future Farmers of America, sponsored by Mr. Harrington, planned activities this year ranging from an initiation ceremony, to a ram sale, to participation in the State FFA Convention. Preparing for careers in agriculture, members, led by president John Phillips, vice-president Bill Miles, secretary Cleve Fenton, and treasurer Bill Reed, competed in district and state judging and in public speaking.

Individual Creativity Emphasized In Studio 51

Individual creativity in art is brought out in members of Studio 51 when they meet on Saturday morning with sponsor, Mr. Trimble. Included as projects for the club are posters for the drama department, and designing and selling pennants to boost school spirit. Energetic officers Jerry Anderson and Roy Kincaid provided leadership for the 1970-71 club year.

Jaycettes Promote Service Activities

Giving pleasure to Woods School Children by taking them to basketball games and sponsoring parties for them, as well as participating in the United Fund, Easter Seal and Blue Envelope Fund Drives, the NCHS Jaycettes were kept busy throughout the year. Officers: Sandy Stroock, President, Kathy Bowden, Chariman of the Board; Julie Longenecker and Sue Whiston, Vice-Presidents; Charlotte Wallace, Secretary; Raelynn Whitman, Treasurer; Cindy Ward and Betty Stroock, Representatives.

(clockwise) Sponsors Mrs. Carley and Jaycee Mr. Meyers; Cindy Ward, President, Sandy Stroock, and Julie Longenecker.

Key Club Furthers Civic Progress

Promoting community action, NCHS Key Clubbers and sponsor Grant Boyles worked for the United Fund, helped with the Casper Day Care Center and initiated a fund for the Peruvian earthquake victims, as well as several other service projects. Sandy Stroock served as Key Club Sweetheart for the 1970-71 Key Clubbers.

All-Staters Sing High Notes Of Success

Based on performance of taped auditions which were screened both by Mr. McIntire and the state chairman, 28 NCHS musicians were selected to attend All-State at Worland on January 30. The 200 voice choir was conducted by Dr. Daniel Moe, and the 65 piece orchestra was directed by Dr. Ralph G. Laycock. Debbie High, Charlotte Browning, Beth Schropfer, and Gretchen Klockseim also attended All-Northwest at Boise, Idaho.

All-State Orchestra were (l to r) Mary Rahm, John Neithammer, Carolyn Phillips, Dale Zitterkopf, Jamie Gray, Barbara Lange, Virginia Burrill, and Kathy Maiben.

New Club Added To NCHS

German Club, brand new, abounded with activities relating students to the customs of Germany. Included were an Oktoberfest party in a joint dinner with the French, Spanish and Latin students.

Latin Club, among its activities, held its traditional banquet replete with slaves and masters, went Christmas caroling, and visited the Natrona County Lodge residents.

Health Careers Explores Sphere Of Medicine

Alive with activity, Health Careers Club investigated the many fields involved in medicine, from visiting Natrona County Hospital to taking Easter baskets to the residents of Natrona Lodge. First semester, the club was ably led by president Lora Laverling, and second semester, by Marilyn Wright; Mrs. Johnson helped with her advice and support.

'The Game Of Kings And Knights' Intrigues Students

Meeting usually once a week in various members' homes, Chess Club provided competition in skill, in strategy and concentration. The club used an open chess ladder during the year to encourage school-wide competition. The members, along with president Gary Gruell, vice-president Steve Gore, treasurer Gordon Box and Lester Findley, chairman Ernie Pengelly, and sponsor Mr. Foster, hosted a tournament at the Ramada Inn with seven schools attending.

Girls' League Council Unites Girls

Girls' League Council, elected by the female faction of the student body, represents another governing force at NCHS. Not only a sounding board for relevant problems, they also sponsor social affairs to help unite the girls of NCHS. Subsidized by a League candy bar sale, the annual Football Ball, a turnabout dance where girls ask the boys, was a memorable affair. A chili luncheon to warm the spirits before a football game with Kelly Walsh, and various teas throughout the year were other thoughtful activities of the Council. Their sponsor, Miss Mary Ann Drew, encouraged the Council to investigate the fate of a dress code, and in so doing, helped to abolish the long-established uniform.

Ecologists Study Environmental Problems

Dedicated to protecting and preserving the environment, the NCHS Ecology Club undertook several projects this year. Meetings were held on Wednesdays before school in Mr. Brannan's room, where members expressed their ideas. Activities, promoted chiefly by Tim Icenogle, included a study of DDT concentration in the fatty tissues of predatory birds, the circulation of petitions for the stocking of organic foods in local groceries, the search for the source of obnoxious sulfurous odors around Casper, attendance at city council meetings to voice a protest when ecological niches were being threatened by 'progress,' and speaking to various organizations about domestic practices for ecology.

Assistants Learn Library Procedures

Many students have benefited by mastering operational procedures of a library through the opportunity afforded by the NCHS library assistants program. Members of the program spend most of their free hours during school shelving books, filing cards, typing notices, and performing various duties which are necessary for the proper functioning of a library. Assistants for 1970-71 are: Cathy Afflerbach, Margy Hammer, Sherrie Jones, Ginger Marsh, Linda Mullin, Anne Reese, Chris Soderstrom, Kathy Waters, and Marilyn Wright.

Sharpshooters Take Second At State

NCHS rifle team, sponsored by the ROTC department and coached by Colonel Johnson, captured second at the state rifle meet held in Cheyenne, May 1st. Officers Larry Greene, team captain, Scott Danielson, secretary, Dallas Chopping, treasurer, led the team in matches with Cheyenne Central and Denver high schools.

(top) Careful aiming technique is demonstrated by Dallas Chopping. (below) Scott Danielson "sights in" on the rifle range.

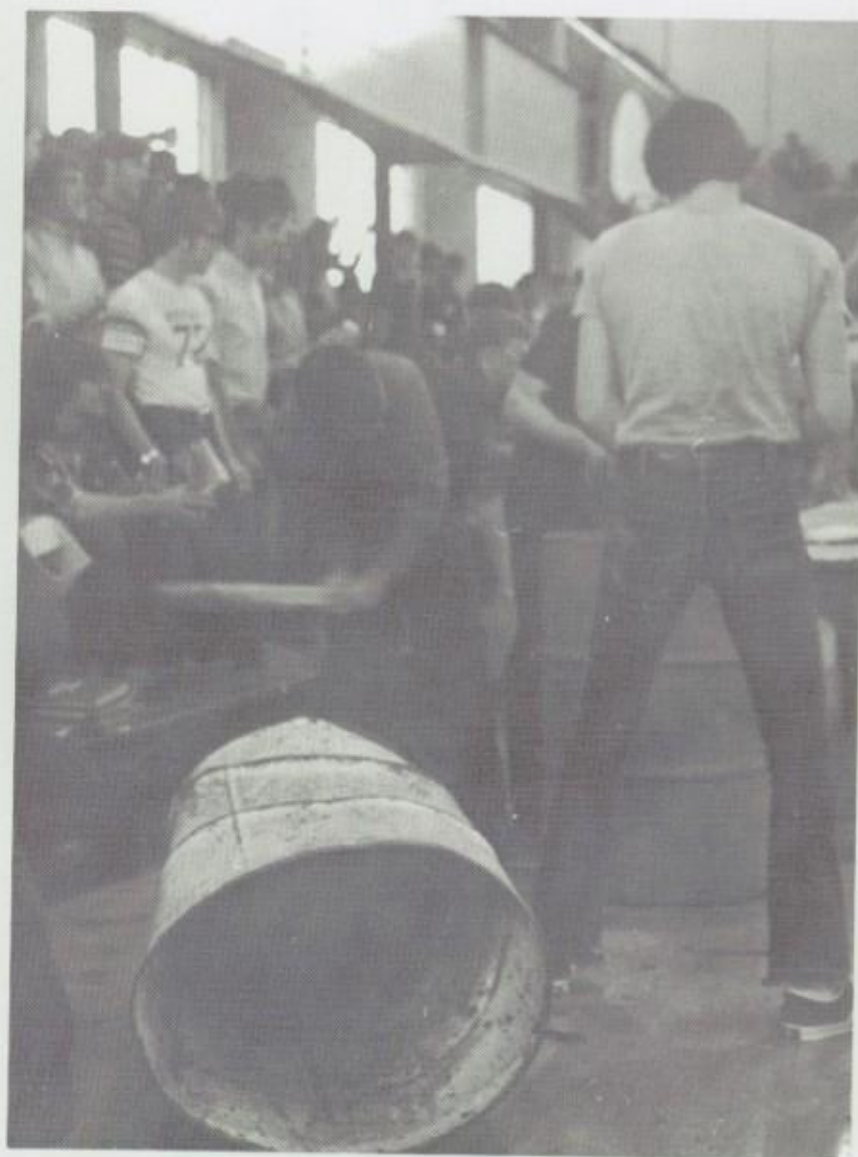

Boys' Booster Club Boosts Spirit

The newly-formed Boys' Booster Club of NCHS proved to be a great asset to the cheering section at all this season's games. Their boundless energy and enthusiasm spurred the teams through a thrilling year. Club officers include Pat Keefe, president; Kevin Shoemaker, secretary; Wayne Jones, treasurer; Bill Scott, senior representative; Kent Scott, junior representative; Allen Akin, sophomore representative.

(top) Cheerleaders struggle in vain to keep from going head over heels in tug-of-war with Boys' Booster Club. (above) Pat Keefe exemplifies enthusiasm of booster club. (right) Tom Davenport contributes confusion during the noise assembly to arouse spirit for the state basketball meet.

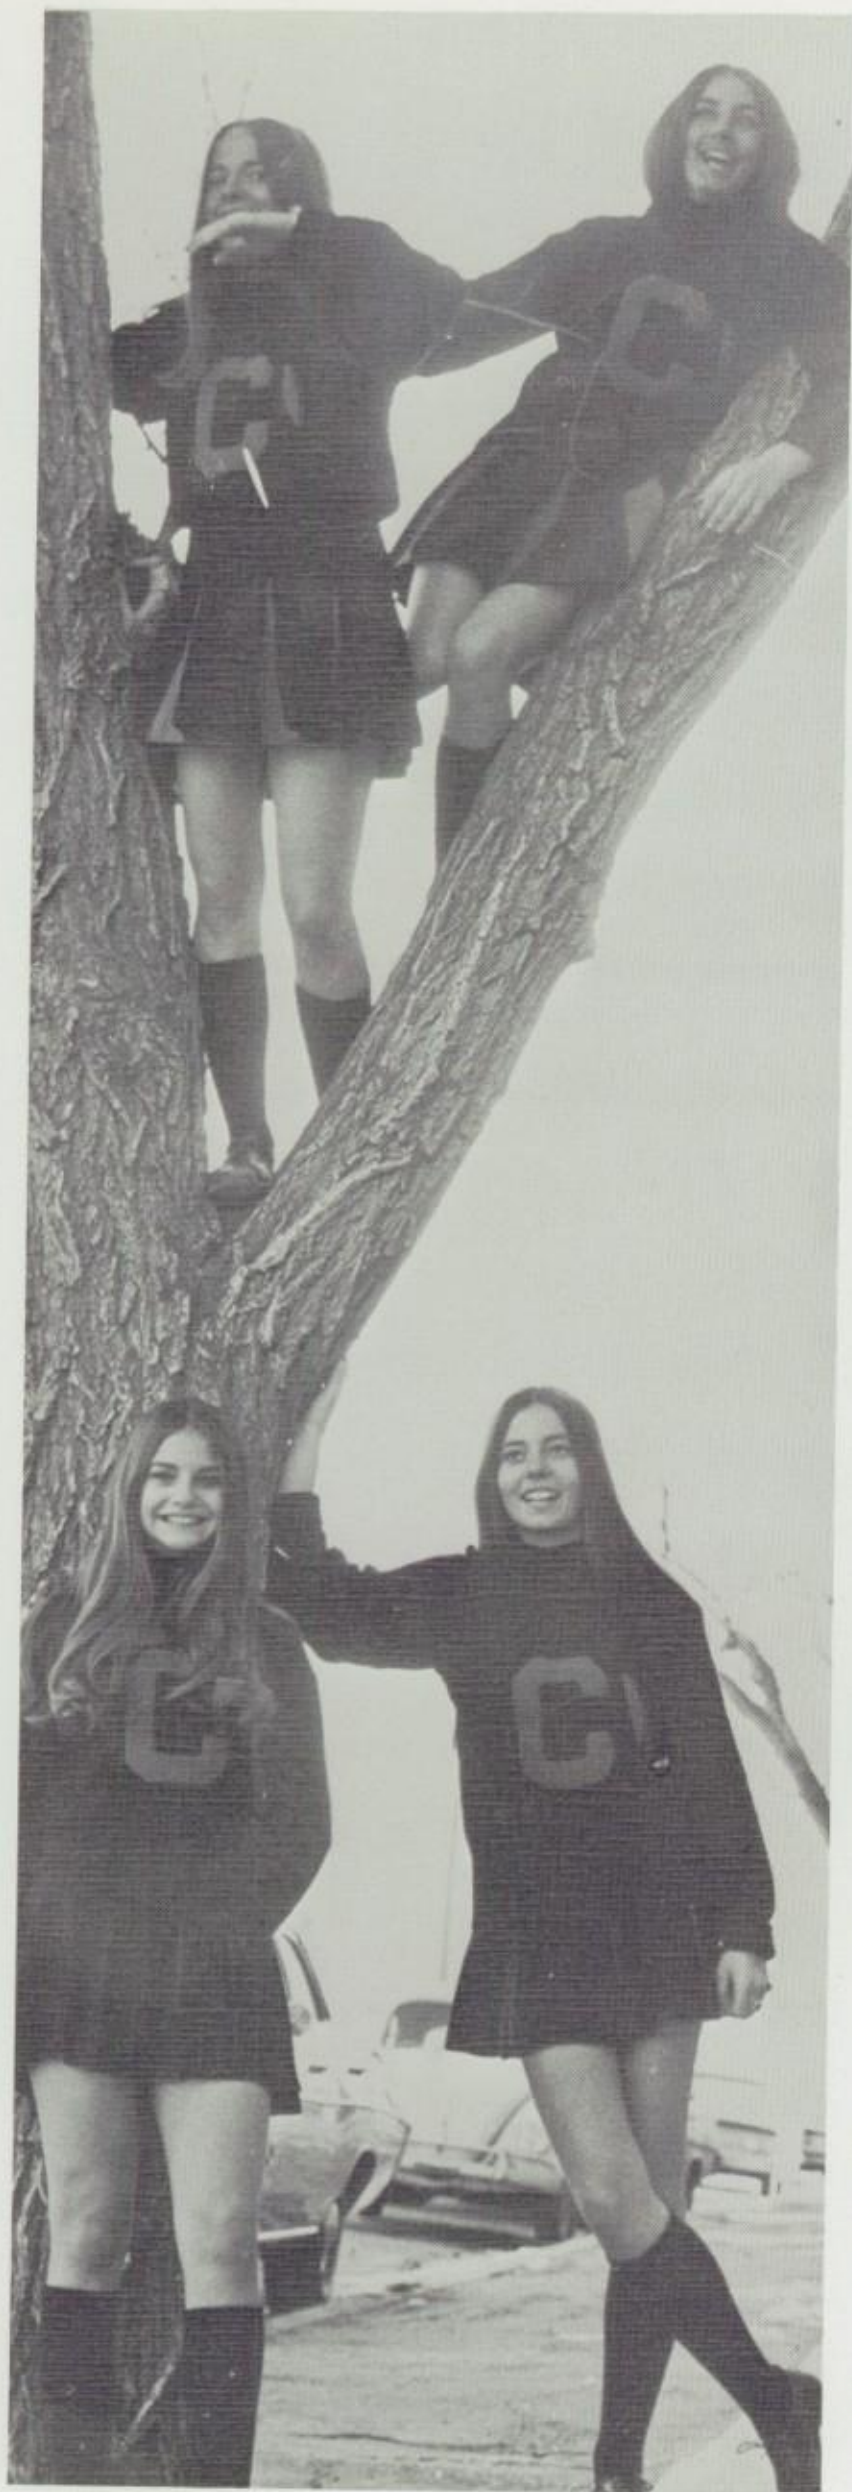

A-Squad Aims For Action

Charged with the responsibility of leading school spirit, the A-Squad cheerleaders bubbled over with enthusiasm. This year, to raise funds, they sold pompoms and cleaner fluid. Needless to say, the cheerleaders and their sponsor, Miss Rippon, spent many a seventh period practicing new cheers.

(upper right) Linda Hawks and Sally Schwartz are almost in tears when the opposing team takes the lead. B-Squad Spreads Spirit

The B-Squad cheerleaders supported the Junior Varsity and sophomore teams in all the major sports, proving that they were a great asset to the school. They also sold cleaner fluid and pompoms.

Dancing Pepsters Dazzle Fans

Pepsters perform original dance routines with the band at all sporting events to entertain and enliven the spirit of the games. Their sponsor, Miss Pattalochi, supervised many money making projects that helped to finance the purchase of new uniforms and pompoms. Their projects included a garage sale in the summer and a mixer after a football game.

Specialists in spicing up spirit, the NCHS Pep Club complements many sports activities with their vivacity. Trips to Cheyenne and Laramie games highlighted their activities.

"C" Club Honors NCHS Athletes

Athletes earning letters for participation in various sports were honored by being chosen to join "C" Club. Activities included maintaining concession stands at ballgames, sponsoring the "C" Club Fights, and holding the "C" Club Banquet to honor the outstanding athletes. Officers included Mike Ray, president; Doug Hirschman, vice-president; Rick Sullins, secretary; Tom Reese, treasurer; and Chuck Zitting and Ken Schulte, sergeants at arms. Coach Art Hill acted as sponsor.

Gymnasts Swing Into Season

The gymnastics team, coached by Bob Iserman, is in practice the entire school year. The team practices an average of eight hours a week in preparation for halftime performances during basketball games, and gymnastic competition in and around Casper. The student council voted this year to give varsity letters to both boys and girls on the gymnastics team even though it is not a state-recognized sport.

Students Rewarded For Excellence

Recognizing the achievements of the class of 1971, civic organizations and NCHS handed out scholarships, awards, and prizes. The Elks Lodge Youth Leadership award for most valuable student was won by Mary Jo Uglow, first, and Julie Longenecker, second. Other honors went to Tom Wingerter, outstanding athlete; Cluadia Peverly, Betty Crocker award; Paul McAteer and Levi Young, state winners in the Plymouth Trouble Shooting competition; Dave Harrington, Director's Trophy; Becky Mathisen, Wilkerson Award for contribution in music; as well as many others.

ty in Forensics, accumulated the most NFL points, received the Coach's Award for Forensics, and placed first in the state, regional, and sectional competitions, and fourth nationally, in the American Legion Oratorical Contest.

Students Communicate in 'In Passing'

"In Passing" affords an opportunity for students to express imagination, reality, opinions, and facts. The staff, whose purpose is to select the best material submitted for publication, includes Mary'n Hallock, editor; Eileen Dryer, assistant editor; Robert Warburton, prose editor; Ellen Dryer, poetry editor; and Betsy Rowlands, sales manager. Duties of the staff ranged from sale of subscriptions, reading selections, to layout of poems and short stories.

Gusher Produces Leaders In Journalism

The Gusher, sponsored by Mrs. Anne Houser, and edited by Cindy McKee and Julie Longenecker, came out twice each month. Such columns as "Open Forum," "Ecology Epitaph," "Like It Is," "Hot Wheels," and "Orange Grove" provided pertinent news and light-hearted entertainment. The staff gained practical experience in all phases concerned with production of a newspaper.

Mustang Staff Races Final Deadlines

Only sustained by cookies and hot chocolate, Mustang staff members and advisers put in many long hours and much effort in producing the 1971 Mustang. Dedication, hard work, and a good deal of patience helped staff members to bring about the yearbook's successful completion.

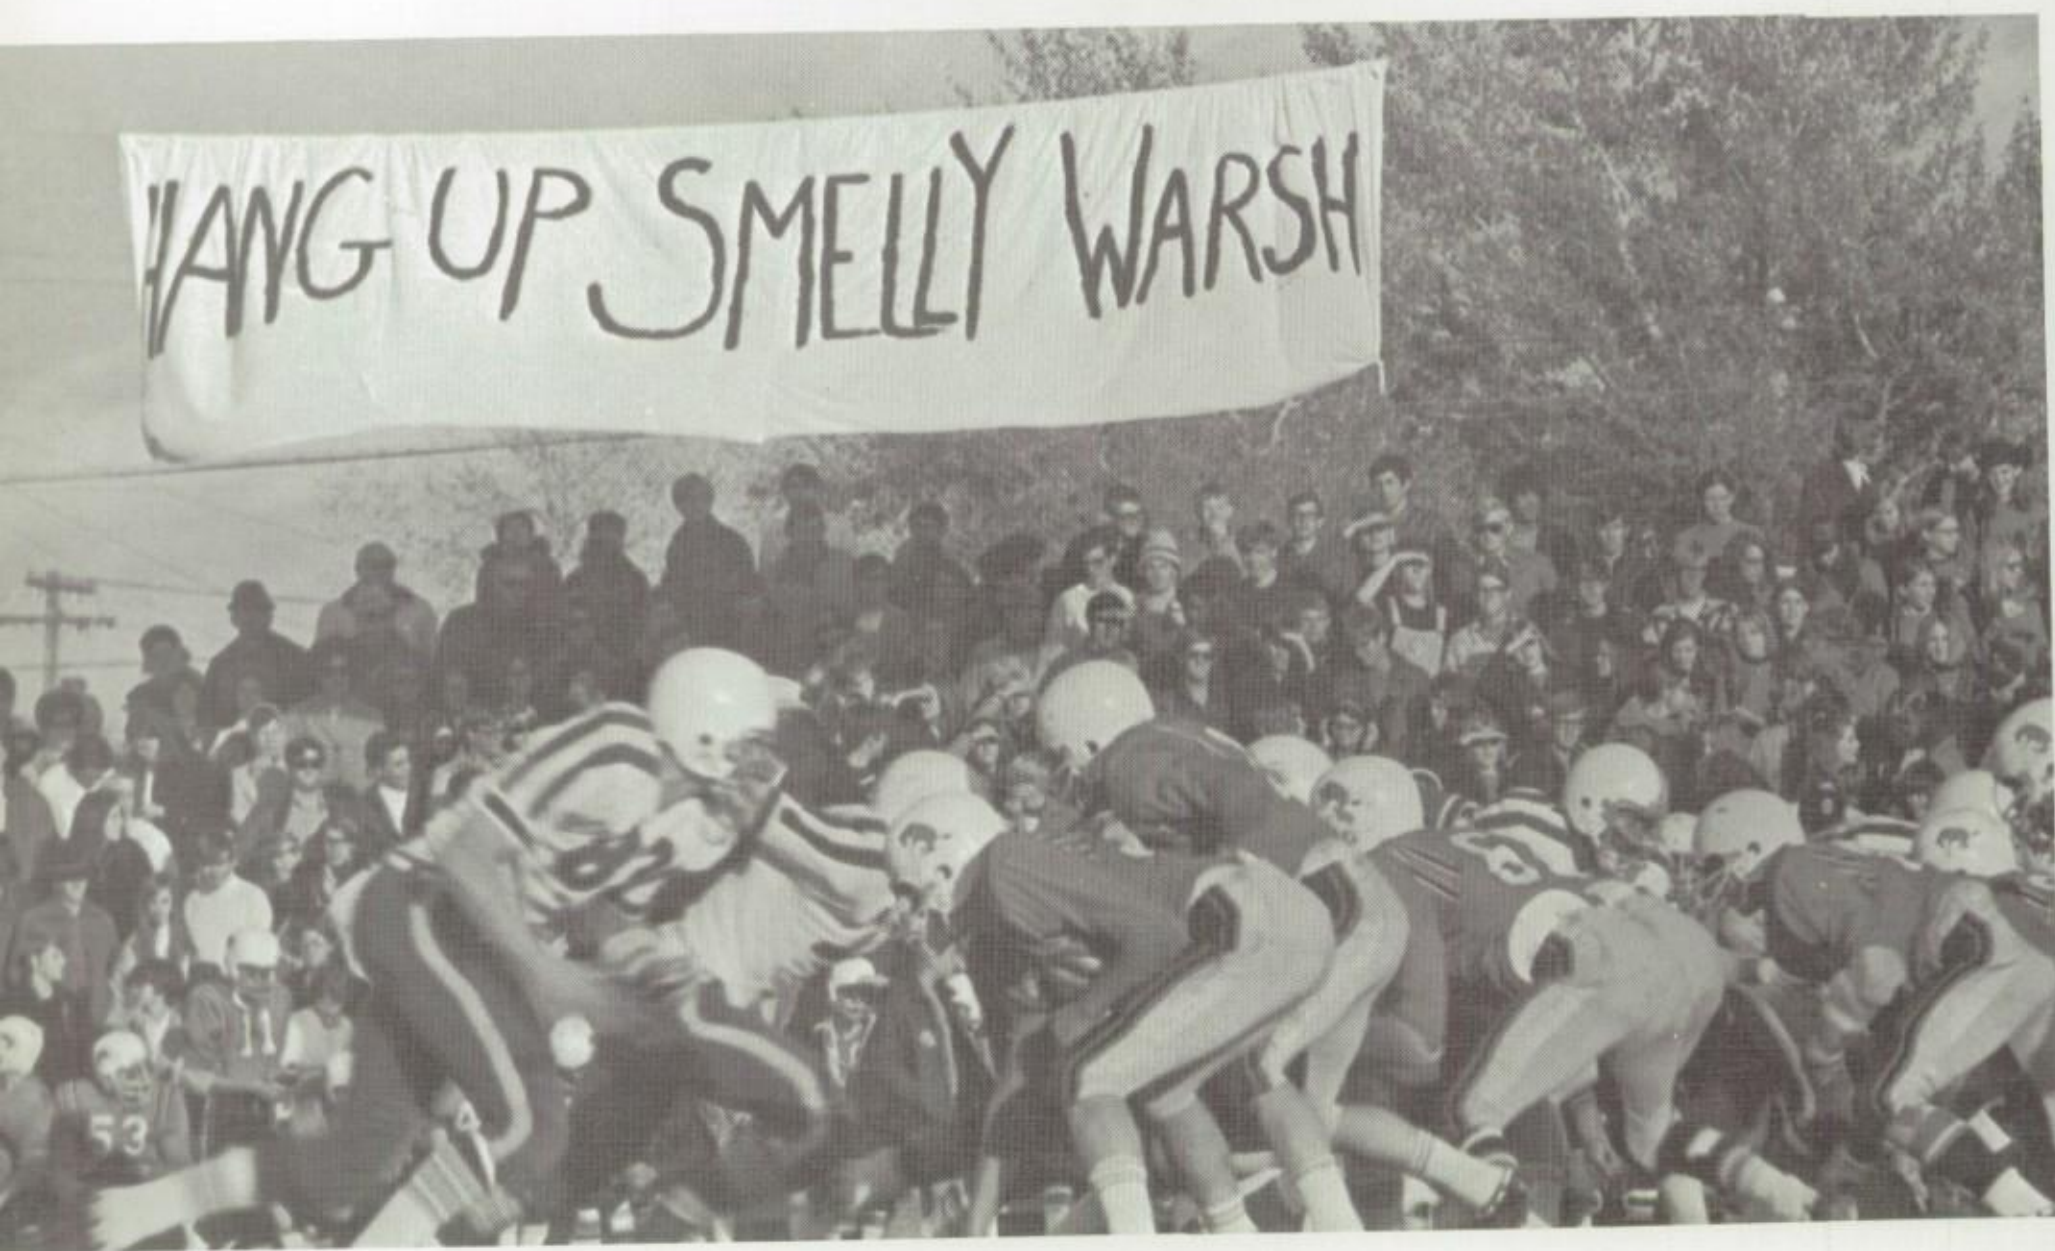

(Clockwise) Editor Sheila McInay pleads with staff to meet deadline; Theresa Mack, Cindy Barkdoll, Terry Trubey, Karen Wyatt and Sheila McInay put finishing touches on finals; Ann Rochelle, Georganne Tani, Joan Dike, Kathy Boland, John Niethammer and Lee Ann Barlow struggle over copy; Sponsors Mrs. Blower and Mr. Anderson joyfully count the remaining unfinished pages.

Sports

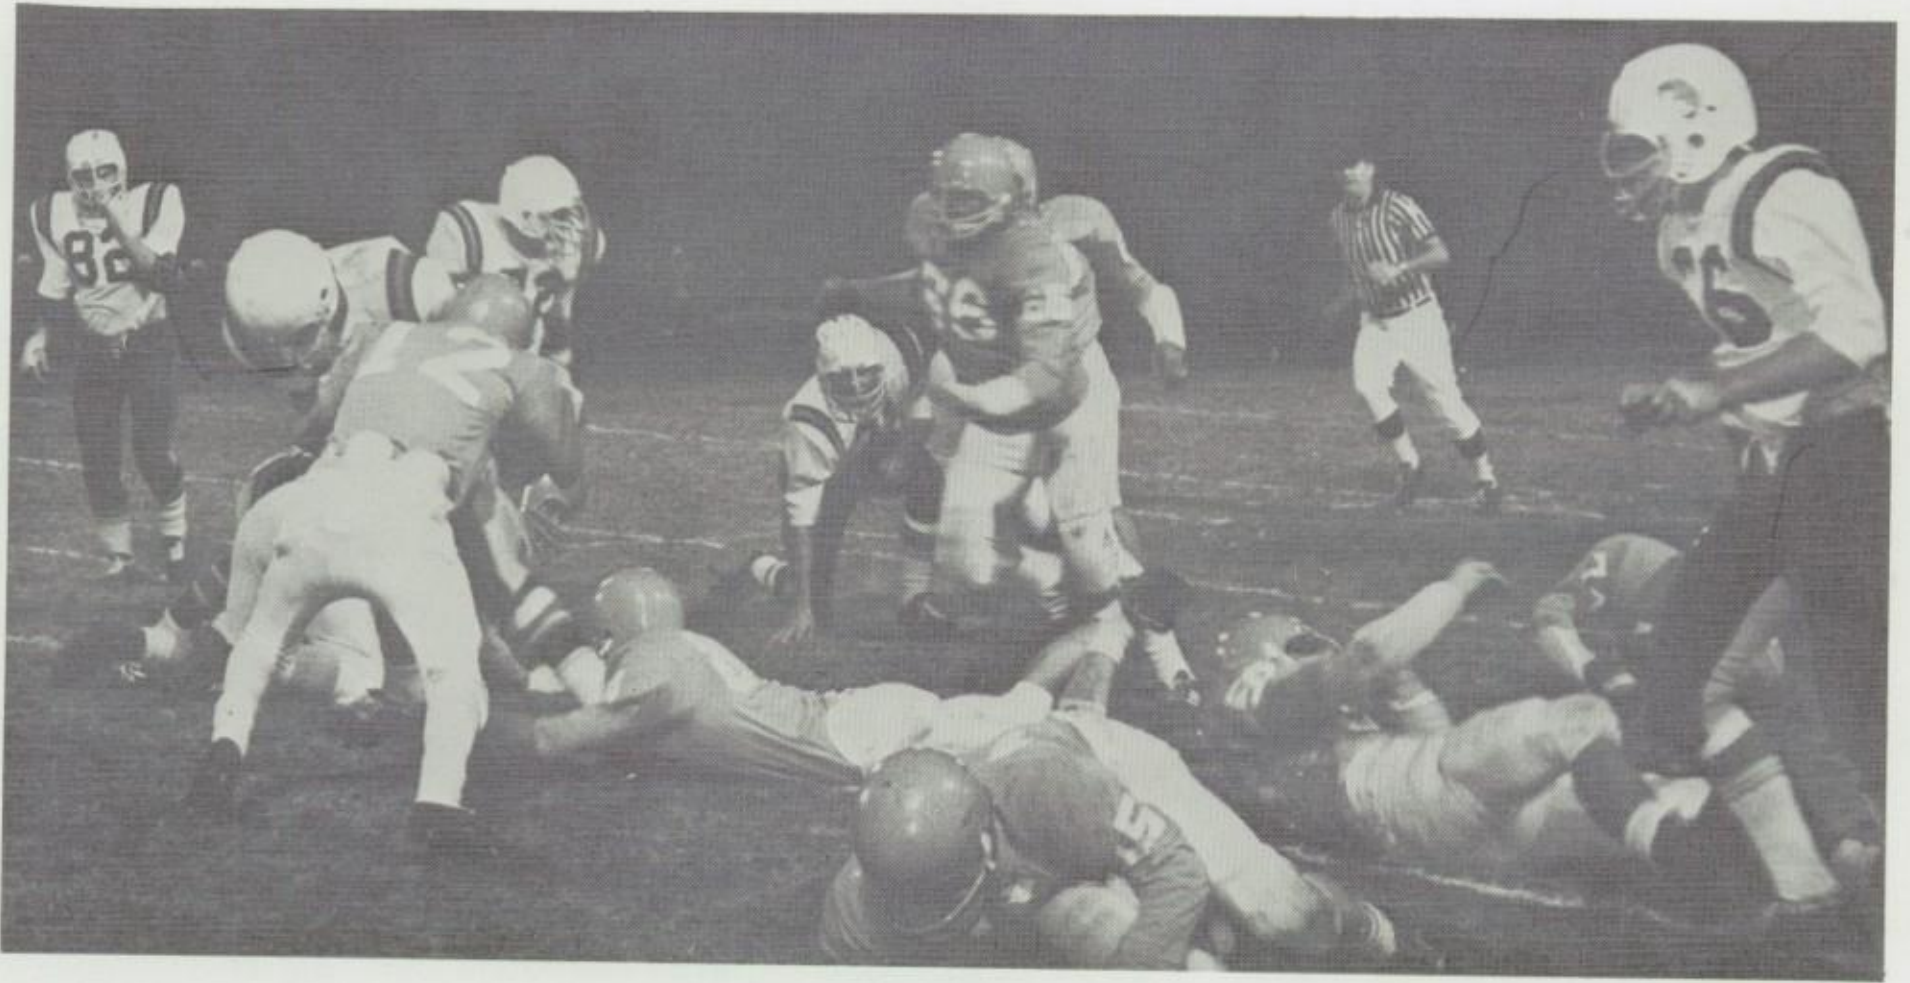

Mustangs Rule With Pigskin

Starting in the latter half of August with a summer football camp, great demands are asked of a Mustang football player. Broken bones and other injuries frequently accompany a football season, but rarely crush the fight of the entire team. Memories are all that are left now for the team members, but they have benefited by learning that coordinated team work goes much farther than individual glory.

Mustang Golfers Take State Again

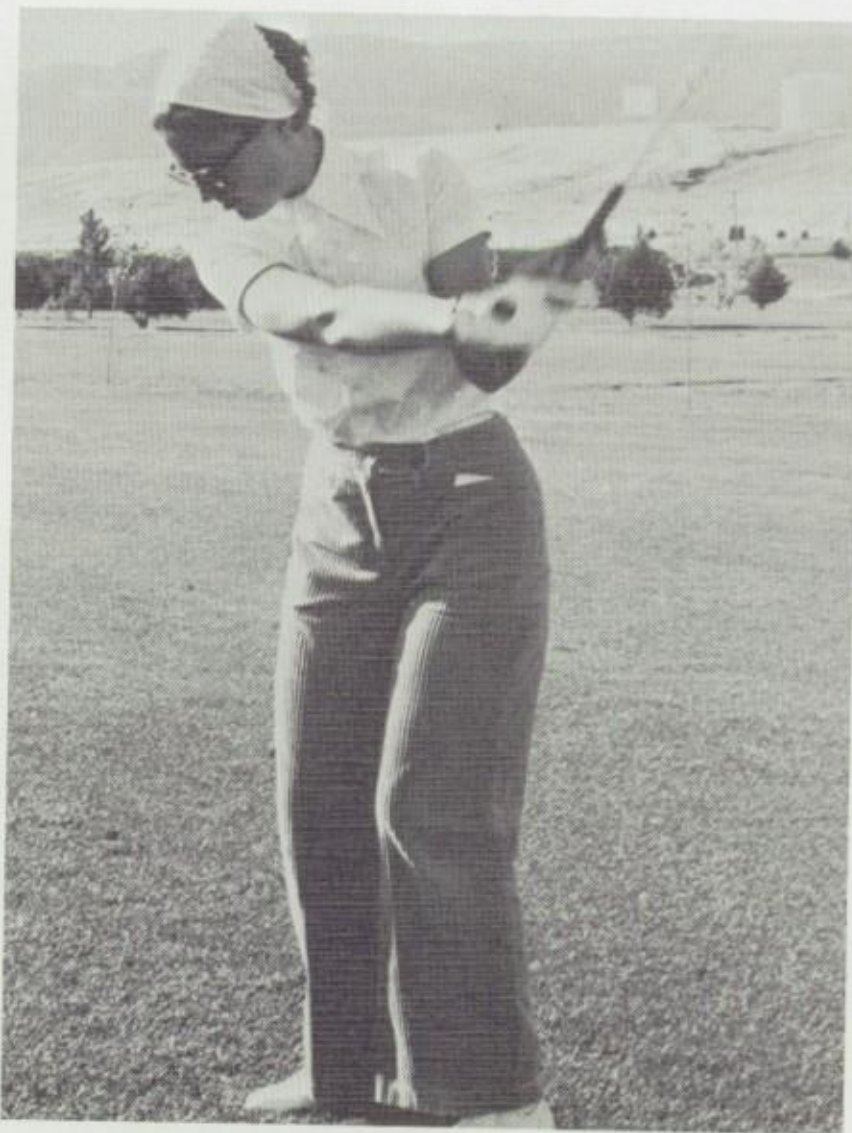

Mustangs came through again by winning the State Class AA Championship for the second year in a row. Coached by Mr. Weishaar, the team competed last fall at Gillette, Rock Springs, Lander, Cody, and on May 14th and 15th, at the Casper Invitational Golf Tournament. Team members included Craig Burdette, Byron Klungness, Bob Veylupek, Kent Scott, Bruce Heisey, Rob Schneider, and Bill Scott.

NCHS Skiers Schuss To Another Victorious Season

Once again the NCHS skiers have proved themselves able schussers by taking first and second in State in the girls and boys respective competitions. Sandy Stroock and Jon Gustafson racked up first places at State, with Joe Womack and Grace Robertson tallying times for close second places. Outstanding skiers, Kevin Sulley and Sandy Stroock qualified for Junior Nationals at Mammoth Mt. Cal.. Sandy and Kevin went on to achieve more honors, along with Betty Stroock, Grace Robertson and Jon Gustafson, by being chosen for the Western State's Junior Alpine Championships.

Tennis Team Nets Outstanding Finish

Coach Mike Honker led the NCHS Tennis Team to a tie for first place in the State Tournament with rival Cheyenne East. Butch Byram and Jeff Larson headed the team in points by placing first in doubles, with Pat Murphy claiming a second in the singles. In dual matches, the NCHS team defeated opponents from Cheyenne East, Laramie, Torrington and Scottsbluff.

Swim Team Makes Big Splash!

Girls swim team chalked up many honors for NC at different meets throughout the state. Qualifying for finals at the state meet in the free relay were Judy Booth, Raelynn Whitman, Callie West, Jamie Paxton. Qualifying for medley relay team were Judy Booth, Patty Long, Luann Duletsky, Callie West, who took fifth. Luann Duletsky finished the season undefeated.

Our Date Now Lies With The Future

Leaving the portals of NCHS, the graduating class of 1971 entered the doorway to the future. Also closing the door to 44 years of service to Casper schools, Kelly Walsh presented the commencement address emphasizing the new goals for education. Presenting the class was Supt. Maurice Griffith, while conferring of the 564 diplomas was conducted by Board President Thad Walker, assisted by board member Dr. Robert Fowler, Principal William Reese and Vice-Principal Robert Bush.

'Frances Faces The Footlights' Phenomenal Follies

Playing to a full house three nights in a row, members of the Class of '72 provided a lively show for the 43rd annual Junior Follies. The story centered around Frances, a studious and reluctant beauty contest winner. Numbers included a hand-clappin', foot-stompin' revival, a puppet-like doll dance, mannequins modeling sequined gowns, tap dancers from "Old Broadway," a number from the "Raindrops" song featuring glow-in-the-dark umbrellas, and a lively, sparkling group of past beauty contest winners.

(3) Music runs through the fingers of Stan Moser in a performance for the choir. (4) The fresh air and sunlight refresh Debbie Nation and Dave Therkildsen after a hard day in school (5) When school gets to be too much for Robin Lewis, she escapes to her handy hide-away.

(1) Georgene Lansford helps out by keeping gates at the State Ski Meet. (2) Dave Southerland carefully reloads before firing another round at rifle practice. (3) For sophomores, registration marks the beginning of a totally new experience. (4) Something quite interesting on the opposite side of the room seems to be distracting Terry Roelfsema and Kevin Bales from their classwork. (5) Marlene Smith and Ned Hodder are aglow with pleasure while dancing at the Military Ball.

WESTERN RESOURCES LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

WR

The one and only!

The "1" and only, full-service Wyoming-based life insurance company going, is the big, new WESTERN RESOURCES LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY of Casper. The big "1" offers you full-service insurance programs, the kind of programs that include life, group life, health, accident, and disability income insurance plans. The big

"1" is in full operation in 11 states throughout the country, but is based in Wyoming to provide its home state with the best and most complete service available. And while the big "1" is big ... it has never, and will never, forget that PEOPLE come first.

WESTERN RESOURCES LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, the big, nice "1" for all your insurance needs.

One Final Thought . . .

As I bring the 1971 Mustang to its completion and store the last copy fitters, and close the Mustang office for the last time until next fall, when the 1972 Mustang will go into production, I can only say that I will never be able to express the profound gratitude I have for this staff and its advisers. Without them and their loyalty to me, and you, the student body, this yearbook could not have been possible.

My deepest gratitude, however, lies with all of you who made it possible for us, at the Mustang, to sense and capture from you, if only for a few pages, the glorious beauty of what it is to be alive.
